FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Wine Country Network Announces 2nd Annual Drink Pink Vino Festival

International Rosé Wine Festival in the Rockies Returns June 10, 2016 at the Omni Hotel

DENVER, Colorado – February 10, 2016

Wine Country Network, Inc., publisher of Wine Country International® magazine and producer of the Denver International Wine Festival, has announced the 2nd annual Drink Pink Vino International Rosé Wine Festival, which will be held on Friday, June 10, 2016 at the luxurious Omni Interlocken Resort's Outdoor Pavilion in Broomfield, Colorado. The Drink Pink Vino International Rosé Wine Festival offers wine enthusiasts the chance to sample new releases right before the summer Rosé drinking season.

Not to be confused with overly sweet White Zinfandels, Rosé wines are as complex as the grapes they come from, not diluted reds. Rosés are produced by crushing red grapes and letting them steep with their skins for only a few hours or up to a few days, before the juice is strained out and fermented. This gives them colors ranging from pale pink to deep cherry, even red. Although the Provençal region of France is the mother of all dry Rosés, excellent Rosés are being produced in Spain ("Rosado"), Italy ("Rosato"), the United States, Germany, South America and Australia. Unlike true reds, Rosés do not improve with age and are meant to be drunk now. With spring around the corner and summer not far behind, a chilled Rosé is the perfect warm weather wine, and its medium flavor depth accompanies most foods beautifully, whether on the beach, at a picnic or watching TV.

Winery registration is now in progress. 2015 Rosé brands included Aix, Ponzi Vineyards, Chêne Bleu, Presqu'île, Buglioni, Schramsberg, Scharffenberger and Henri Gaillard Rosé Côtes, Simi and Creekside Cellars, to name just a few. Participating restaurants will include The Oceanaire Seafood Room and Big Mac and Little Lu's Seafood. Musicians will set the mood playing live New Orleans-style Jazz.

100% of the auction proceeds will benefit There With Care®. There With Care's mission is to provide a wide range of thoughtful and fundamental services to children and families during the critical phase of a medical crisis. <http://therewithcare.org/>
